Jamestown Campus

The Arts and Sciences Center (ARSC) houses the sciences, technology, engineering, and mathematics division and the arts, humanities, and health sciences division; occupational therapy assistant and professional piloting programs; classrooms; lounges; science and computer labs; music studios; management information systems department; the Robert Lee Scharmann Theatre; Weeks Gallery; and the Sarita Hopkins Weeks Reception Hall.

The Katharine Jackson Carnahan Center (CARN) houses nursing classrooms and laboratory and the JCC Center for Continuing Education's computer labs, conference rooms, and training facilities.

The John D. Hamilton Collegiate Center (COCE) houses the student union, campus store, cafeteria, health center, counseling services, employment/job search services, art studios, box office, student government offices, and maintenance department. All administrative offices, including the registrar, admissions, financial aid, and business offices, are located in this building.

The Hultquist Library (HULT) is a fully automated library and encompasses an outstanding collection of over 55,000 volumes, 400 periodical subscriptions, and an extensive audiovisual collection. Besides the library's resources, this building houses classrooms, the business and social sciences division, Main Street tutorial center, computer labs, conference rooms, distance learning facilities, the Lenna Theater, and student and faculty lounges.

The Manufacturing Technology Institute (MTI), located across from the campus, is a partnership of JCC and the Manufacturers Association of the Southern Tier. MTI provides services to businesses and individuals in the region through hands-on manufacturing technical training as well as technology assistance.

The Physical Education Complex (PHED) consists of a gymnasium for multi-purpose uses, a swimming pool, diving pool, racquetball court, running track, weight room, Life Fitness Center, and locker and shower facilities. The main gymnasium floor is also used for special spectator events, seating up to 2,500 people.

Hillside Suites, 52 well-designed residential units accommodating 220 students, feature 40 suites with four private single bedrooms and 12 suites with three private single bedrooms and one double bedroom.

Additional Facilities

The Sheldon House, located at 9 Falconer Street, was the gift of Julia Sheldon Livengood. It is used for conferences, meetings, and as a guest house for college visitors. The Roger Tory Peterson Institute is located across from the campus on Curtis Street. Other facilities, which are open to the college for instructional and recreational uses, are the Russell E. Diethrick Jr. Park and College Park and Biological Station, which is commonly referred to as the 100-Acre Lot; plus a number of municipal and private facilities in the city and county. These include public schools, hospitals, and nursing homes, as well as numerous social service agencies to provide off-campus learning experiences for JCC students.
